WATERBURY

W. H. Seabury and Mrs. Annie Durkee Married in St. Albans.

William H. Seabury and Mrs. Annie Norton Durkee were married at the home of Mrs. H. G. Morton of Bank street, St. Albans, Sunday evening by Rev. John Benjamin Magee, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in that city. They left on the evening train for an extended western trip, which will include Kansas City, Mo. On their return they will reside here. Mr. Seabury is one of our prominent business men, the manager of the E. H. Seabury estate, grain dealers. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Norton of Morrisville, formerly of this town. For eight years past she has been head saleslady in the L. J. Morton store at St. Albans. Mr. and Mrs. Seabury are old-time neighbors and friends and congratulations are extended to them by their friends and acquaintances.

News of the death of Henry Finn, for some time driver and all around man for Dr. H. D. Hopkins, was received with great sorrow, as few knew of his illness. Dr. and Mrs. Hopkins being away on their vacation, Mr. Finn was looking after the property, but Saturday went to the Center farm, where he helped. He was taken ill that night and died yesterday morning, the funeral being this afternoon at 2 o'clock. He was born in Greenfield, Mass., 31 years ago and married Miss Bessie Nichols. He is survived by his widow and two children, one sister, Mrs. Hoar of Winchendon, Mass., and one brother, Michael H. Finn of Concord, N. H.

Corporal Bunker belongs to the 9th Massachusetts regiment. Mrs. Bunker will remain with her father during the war or as long as her husband is in the service. Mrs. Saxon, who has been there, will remain for a time.

NEW PARTY TO ARISE?

Political Working Agreement to Be Sought at Chicago Conference.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—A political working agreement among the Progressives, Socialists, Single Taxers and union labor is said to be the purpose of a conference to be held here Oct. 3. There will be one hundred delegates, twenty from each contingent, and they will meet behind closed doors.

Virgil G. Hinshaw, chairman of the national committee of the Prohibition party, would not predict that a new party was to be formed.

"Such a prediction would consign my own party to the scrap heap," he said. Prohibition and Progressive organs this week are expected to publish articles on authority of Matthew Hale and Frederick H. Chase, respectively chairman and secretary of the national committee of the Progressives, and Mr. Hinshaw and Secretary Francis E. Beauchamp of the Prohibitionists, asking the "wedding" of the two parties. Their plan would include membership of other "Liberal" elements; joint headquarters in Chicago, New York and Pacific coast and Gulf coast cities. They would work through their separate treasurers along harmonious lines for the election of at least forty selected congressmen in 1918. It is asserted that the Progressives and Prohibitionists are bound firmly by like ideals.

How Every Woman Is Being Reached.

The woman's committee of the council of national defense is trying to reach every woman in the country. A writer says in the October Woman's Home Companion:

"Take a town of 10,000 inhabitants anywhere in the United States and see how this organization works there. What the woman's committee of the council of national defense asks of this town is that it should form, for the period of the war, a central committee, in which every society, every church, every school in the community shall be represented. It asks that no agency be overlooked, big or little, rich or poor, black or white, Catholic, Jewish, or Protestant. It needs no arguing that with such a committee in every community, practically every woman can be reached."

"We are told that this is not practical, that the American woman won't come into any such all-inclusive group, that she thinks in terms of her societies and her causes, and not in national terms. Well, if this has been true, something has happened to the American woman for to-day, just as fast as the plan of organization of the woman's committee of the council of national defense becomes known, these democratic groups are forming."

"In order to find out just what the various organizations were doing, and to what degree they were prepared to co-ordinate their efforts, the woman's committee invited the presidents, or their representatives, of all the national groups on its list to a meeting at headquarters. Although the notice was short, 75 organizations sent representatives. In three-minute speeches these women told of the work they were doing and offered their full allegiance to the government in its effort to unify the woman power."

What Better Authority?

"Daughter, do you think that young fellow is the man for you?"
"Oh, I know it, papa."
"How do you know it?"
"He told me so himself."—Boston Transcript.

And Vowing She Would Ne'er Consent.

"Would you be very much annoyed if I were to kiss you?"
"Annoyed? I should be simply furious! How dare you suggest such a thing! If you tried I should never speak to you again, and besides, it's much too public here!"—The Passing Show.
